METHODS OF TEACHING THE TEACHING METHODOLOGY COURSES AT LANGUAGE DEPARTMENTS OF TEACHER-TRAINING COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Assoc.Prof. Nguyen Lan Trung
University of Languages and International Studies

There is no such thing as a one-size-fits-all textbook that is accessible to every user. Different users will benefit to different extents from the book because each has their own specific mental and physical conditions. It is the school who tailors its methods of education to suit the level of learners who are ultimately the target of education. Teaching methodology is a subject of great significance to teacher-training institutions. More important, however, is how to teach this subject to teachers-to-be. This article therefore touches upon some fundamental issues of teaching Methodology as a subject foreign language departments in teacher-training colleges and universities. (The FOREIGN LANGUAGE Journal, Issue 2/2010 – T.XXVI)